

'Understanding Stewarding at Spectator Events' Course

Fancy a paid stewarding job at the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games and other major events?

Want a free qualification that will get you a job?

Imagine great part time and holiday jobs

second course due to popular demand

Kingston College are offering students in your sixth form a place on our 'Understanding Stewarding at Spectator Events' course. Once you have completed the qualification you will be invited to an interview for a paid stewarding job at the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games as well as a host of other exciting events. To work at most events you will need to be 18 years of age but you can do the course before you are 18 and once you hit the magic number you can find employment.

Students can choose from Tuesday or Thursday evening courses 6pm - 9pm from 3rd / 5th May for 10 weeks.

For more information please come along to our information evening on Tuesday 5 April at 5.30pm. Please report to visitors reception at the front of college.

For more information contact Martin O'Brien on 020 8268 2690 or email martin.obrien@kingston-college.ac.uk